THE INDIGO VOYAGE: MILK CHOCOLATE COLLECTION

Embark on a journey of flavours, cultural treasures & creamy milk chocolate.

ABOUT THE COLLECTION:

Inspired by the maritime adventures and cultural exchange, this collection captures the essence of exploration, trade, and the treasure troves of blue ceramics discovered along these ancient routes.

The creamy milk chocolate focus at the core of this collection, reflect the comforting sense of returning home from a long journey.

The deep blue glazes of historical ceramic and pottery artisans shows up in museums around the world, savoring early Chinese 'qinghua' and Dutch 'delftware' cobalt glazes, Turkish Iznik blue pottery, Japanese Arita porcelain, Persian Kashan, Moroccan Fassi or Majorelle and English willow 'underglaze' blue.

The artwork for this collection, was created by Cape Town artist Michael Chandler, who works dominantly in blue and white ceramics.

ABOUT THE ARTIST: MICHAEL CHANDLER

ARTIST, ILLUSTRATOR, CERAMICIST

Michael Chandler works primarily in blue cobalt and white glaze.

Before he opened Chandler House in 2010, Michael studied art history and worked in the art auction world. It was here that his obsession with blue and white ceramics began.

These painted reflections of cultures and tastes can be traced back to 9th century Iraq, then through China, Japan and Korea, on to the Netherlands, and finally to the Bokaap where Michael lives and works.

Michael's work is whimsical and imaginative and each piece has a story to tell. "I sell stories that happen to be imbued in the objects I make. I think that art should live on a table in a home where it can spark conversation, as opposed to being hermetically-sealed in a serious museum."
